To Whom It May Concern:

I have twice previously contacted you (12/3/02, and 6/14/03) in response to receiving direct mail from you. I received another piece of direct mail from you in yesterday's mail.

Under the United States Code, title 39, section 4009 (a), I have the right to request that you stop sending me any unsolicited material whatsoever, and you must comply, under threat of a contempt sanction from the Federal Government.

If I receive another piece of direct mail from you, I will file a complaint with the Better Business Bureau and a prohibitory order with the US Postal Service. Should you continue to send me direct mail after the prohibitory order has been filed, the Postal Service will take legal action against you.

Please insure that I do not receive any more direct mail.

John Smith
